Apparently No Danger of a Clash on Account of Strike.

WALK TO HELP SELF

People Who Neither Patronize Street Cars Nor Tally-Hos-Annual Budget More than the Annual Receipts of the City.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PETERSBURG, VA., June 23.—No extra police are necessary and no extra work by the force is required to keep order during the prespet strike. The cries of "scab" that greets a car man on duty now and then comes as often from his friends as from the sympathizers of the striking men.

There is nothing to indicate that any clash will come, however long the striking many last.

clash will come, however long the strike may last.

The actions of the striking men are, indeed, commendable, and citizens generally praise them for their conduct.

Cars are now being run regularly on all the lines except on the Blandford line. The company have trained men enough to run all the cars, but are not putting them on, as all men employed are given regular work, and they desire to keep a few positions open for such of the men as they believe will desire work after the strike has passed.

WALK TO HELP THEMSELVES.

The tally-ho lines are still being run by the former employes of the street car company, but those who "walk" to help the boys do not seem disposed to ride to help them, for the patrons of the tally-hos are no more than the patrons of the cars.

SOLD LIQUOR IN PROHIBITION TOWN

A Case that is Attracting Wide Attention in North Carolina.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

SALISBURY, N. C., June 23 .- The folcwing statement has been issued by the president of the Anti-Saloon League of Spencer. As is stated, the case has attracted wide attention in this part of the State, and the attorneys here are receiving numerous inquiries from all sections. "A case which will be of special interest to the people of the entire State developed here a few days ago, when a saloon-keeper of Salisbury was bound over to the Superior Court on the charge of selling whiskey in Spencer without license. It is proposed that this be made a test case on behalf of the State of North Carolina. Spencer is a prohibition town, made so by its charter, but it has been suspected for some time that the saloon-keepers of Salisbury were selling liquor here, and a few days ago C. W. Pool, a saloon-keeper of the former place, erected on one of the principal streets in Spencer a large sign advertising that he would deliver whiskey in this town. A young man eighteen years of age ordered of his own accord a quart of whiskey over the telephone from Pool's saloon and it was depresident of the Anti-Saloon League of eighteen years of age ordered of his own accord a quart of whiskey over the telephone from Pool's saloon, and it was delivered by an agent of Pool, the agent collecting the money and giving a receipt therefor.

Warrants were issued for Pool charging him with selling whiskey without license and for selling to a minor, it being the contention of the prosecution that as the whiskey was delivered and paid for in Spencer that the place of delivery became the place of sale. The case was tried before Justice Miller, of Salisbury, who decided that the defendant was guilty of selling licuor without license, and bound cided that the defendant was guilty of selling licuor without license, and bound him over on that charge, the charge of selling to a minor being dismissed. The defendant was bound over under section 10% of the Code, and it is confidently expected that he will be convicted, as the general law and decisions in similar cases the place of delivery is the place of sale. (See Vol. 17, American and English Encyclopaedla of Law, pages 301 and 302.)

"On account of the legal points involved, this case will doubtless attract attention throughout this and adjoining States.

"Respectfully,"
